Dear business partners,

let me please inform you regarding the news of the upcoming Future Soldier exhibition & conference 2012. The event will take place from 17th to 19th October 2012 in Prague, Czech Republic.

The 10th anniversary exhibition will be organised again under the auspices of the Ministry of Defence of the Czech republic. As the past years, the guarantors and partners are professional and industrial associations.

Unlike the last year exhibitions, this year one will be from Wed until Fri. There are preliminary registration for exhibitors and conference participants at the www.natoexhibition.org and due to the limited space we would appreciate if you make your reservation as early as possible.

We would like to inform you about the new signed contract between the European Military Press Association (EMPA) and the International Coordination Centre of the Future Soldier exhibitions. The EMPA associates members from 20 european countries, who will meet at their regular congress that coincide with the Future Soldier 2012 exhibition & conference. Therefore during the first two days all members will be available at the Future Soldier exhibition itself. The journalists specialized in the defence and security technologies will be from Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Croatia, Czech republic, Estonia, Finland, Germany, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Lithuania, Norway, Poland, Romania, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Switzerland and The Netherlands.

Because of the benefits of personal appointment with you, we attended IWA 2011 exhibition in Germany and IDET 2011 in Czech Republic. Next possibility of personal appointment will be at the DSEi 2011 exhibition from 13th until 16th September 2011 in London, The United Kingdom. There is possibility to arrange an appointment whenever else too of course.

We would also like to remind you of our new wider nomenclature, which contains complete equipment for the armed forces and the dismounted soldier. It includes weapons and ammunition, optical systems, electronics, medical and maintenance field equipment, communication systems, clothes, shoes, protection equipments and others. The nomenclature is together with the application form available at our websites www.natoexhibition.org.

Your faithfully,

Martina Ondková
Production Manager
